29 May 1950

- In early May, 180 men who graduated from the Southern University and the civil service cadre school in Canton were appointed village heads in hsien within a 150 mile radius of Canton. The primary function of these officials is to detect guerrilla units and hidden arms, using pro-Communist members of farmers' associations as informers. On 13 May 1,000 rifles were seized near Tungkuan Hsien (113-46, 23-02), and on 14 May 200 rifles were seized in Shunte Hsien (113-16, 22-50), 35 miles south of Canton.
- To avoid a Communist force of 15,000 men, recalled from other areas for mopping-up operations, 20,000 Nationalist guerrillas in the Canton and Pearl River area are hiding in mountains 50 miles north of Canton.* The guerrillas have surrendered their old arms to the Communists and have buried their better arms for future use. On 14 May 200 guerrillas were captured by Communists 10 miles north of Canton. The guerrille leaders are seeking financial support from Hong Kong and Taiwan. **
